User Manual

Register

For guests, registration is valid. They can create accounts by filling requested information. Username and email are unique attributes that the users cannot use others'. If they fill existed values, the form will show error comments.

For auth users, registration is not valid.

Fig – 3.1 (Registration Form)

Login

For guests, login feature is allowed but they must have registered account. Unless, they will not be able to sign in to the website. Besides, they must fill their correct email and password to complete the process.
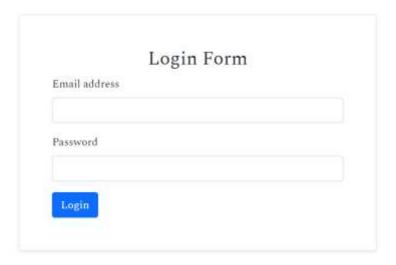

For auth users, login is not valid.

Fig - 3.2 (Login Form)

Blog Cards

For both guests and auth users, they will be able to see blog cards. There are three blog cards in a row. They can only see two rows (total 6 blogs). If there is more than 6 blogs pagination function will work. A blog card contain Title, Intro (180 words) of a blog, Read More for detail, category tag, author and blog created time.

Fig – 3.3 (Blog cards with pagination function)

Read Blogs

For both guests and auth users, they can read the blogs in detail by clicking Read More in blog cards.

Create, Update and Delete blogs

For guests, they will not be able to post blogs.

For auth users, they can post new blogs, update and delete them. For blog creation, they have to enter create blogs from navigation bar. For update and delete, they must click edit icon and update or delete them in an edit form.

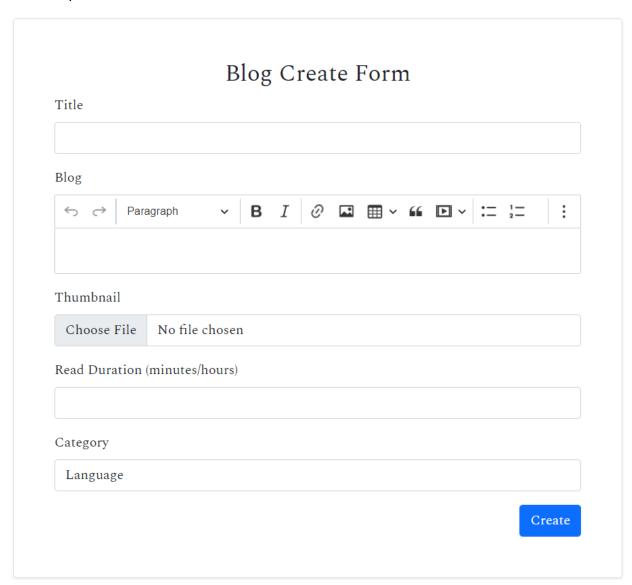

Fig - 3.4 (Blog Create Form)

Fig - 3.5 (Edit Icon Feature from a blog card)

Filter Blogs by Category and Search Blogs

Both visitors and authenticated users are allowed to use filter and search features to retrieve the blogs. Users can read the blogs according to the filtered category such as Entertainment posts in Entertainment category. Besides, they can search the blogs by the words from blog title and blog body. Moreover, they can use together with search and filter function. For example, finding the blogs that contain "HTML" words in IT category.
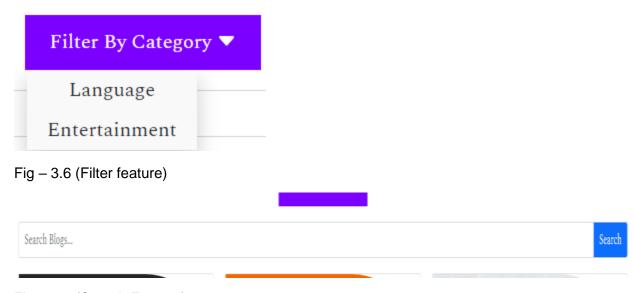

Fig – 3.6 (Filter feature)

Fig – 3.7 (Search Feature)

Like Feature

For guests, like function is not available. Instead they will see, please login to like the post. If the click like button, they will reach to login page. However, they can see the total likes of a post.

For auth users, they have a permit to like the posts. If they like the post, the like count will add one to existing like count. If they click that like button again, the post will be disliked. The like count decrease in one.

HTML and CSS

Written By - Kaung Zin Thant
21 hours ago
3 Minutes read

1 Likes

Please Login to like the post

Fig – 3.8 (Like feature from Guest View)

HTML and CSS

Written By - Kaung Zin Thant
21 hours ago
3 Minutes read

1 Likes

Fig – 3.9 (Auth user like the post)

HTML and CSS

Written By - Kaung Zin Thant
21 hours ago
3 Minutes read

0 Likes

Fig – 3.10 (Auth user dislike the post)

Comment Feature

The guests are not allowed to make comments. Instead they will see "Please login to make a comment". Nevertheless, they can read the comments.

Logged in users are able to make comments on each post. Besides, they can edit and delete their comments by clicking edit icon. The comment section contains total comment counts, author profile, author name, comment body, comment created time, reply and edit icon.

Comments (2)

Kaung Zin Thant
9 hours ago

Mingalarbar

↳ 1 Reply

Kaung Zin Thant
7 hours ago

What's up?

↳ 1 Reply

Please Login to make a comment

Fig – 3.11 (Comment section from guest view)

Fig – 3.12 (Comment section from auth user view)

Reply Feature

Since guest are not able to make comments, they cannot make replies either. Similarly, they can read the replies.

Auth users can reply on each comment. When they click reply on comment, they will see reply box. If they write something and submit in the reply box, their replies will be able to seen in reply section. They can show or hide reply section. Like comments, they can edit and delete their replies.

Comments (2)

Kaung Zin Thant
9 hours ago

Mingalarbar

↳ 1 Reply

Kaung Zin Thant
9 minutes ago

Nihao

Kaung Zin Thant
7 hours ago

What's up?

↳ 1 Reply

Please Login to make a comment

Fig – 3.13 (Reply section from guest user view)

Fig – 3.14 (Reply section from auth user view)

Profile Panel

Profile panel is only available for auth users. They can watch their name, job, bio and their blogs. Besides, there is an account setting button.
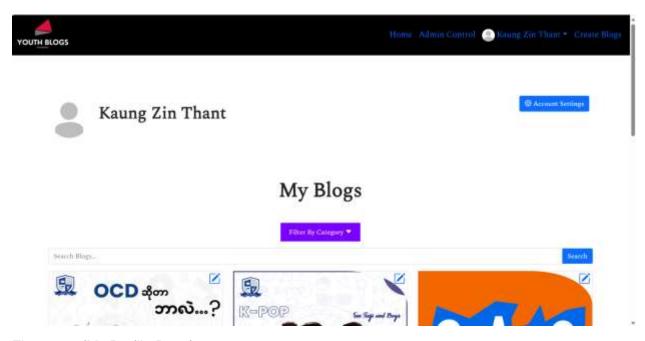

Fig – 3.15 (My Profile Page)

Account Settings Page

Account Settings is the place where authenticated users can change their information such as their account name, password, and make a log out.

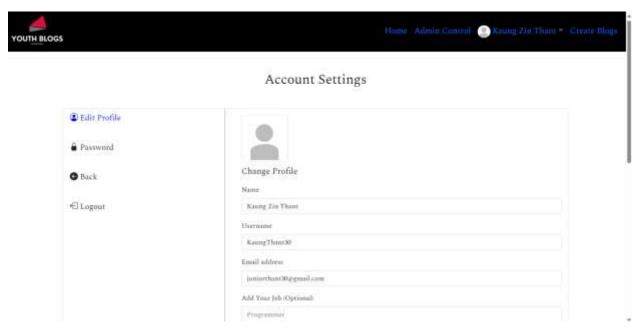

Fig – 3.16 (Account Settings Page)

Logout Feature

      Auth users will be able to log out from the website since they have logged in. They will see log out modal with log out confirmation if they click log out.

Fig – 3.17 (Logout Modal)